ORDER OF DETENTION PENDING TRIAL

Page 2.

Alternate Findings (B) - (continued)

Defendant voluntarily joined five other conspirators who were apprehended by a police task force which was trailing them on their way to rob a credit union in Lansing, MI. Defendant has personally been involved in at least two earlier credit union robberies. The conspirators had put on makeup and had other disguises to alter their appearance. Various members of the conspiracy have robbed up to five other credit unions and collected approximately $100,000. The conspirators have a pattern of passing demand notes demanding somewhere between $30,000 and $60,000, with the threat that people will be injured or killed if the credit union does not surrender the money.

Defendant is a substance abuser.

Defendant has never been married.

Defendant is only 22, but has a criminal record, including a conviction for carrying concealed weapons, possession of marijuana, and assaulting and resisting/obstructing a police officer. He has another conviction for attempted delivery/manufacture of marijuana and has been considered a probation absconder for over a year. Defendant was also convicted of attempted receipt and concealing of a stolen motor vehicle, for which he received the benefit of the Holmes Youthful Trainee Act, and placed on probation. However, probation and the HYTA were revoked less than a year later.
